

The official Girl Scout curriculum promotes Martina Navratilova – abortion rights supporter and Planned Parenthood funder – as a “voice for good.”

See page scan below from Your Voice Your World, page 82.

VOICES FOR GOOD: WOMEN ADVOCATES THROUGH THE YEARS

1981

Martina Navratilova, the world’s top female tennis player, is granted U.S. citizenship. The following year, she begins her impressive string of nine consecutive Wimbledon victories. Ultimately, she goes on to win 18 Grand Slam singles and a record 20 Wimbledon titles. Along the way, she learns to use the power of her position and voice to advocate for issues she cares about deeply.

82

Navratilova’s current biography lists Planned Parenthood among her philanthropic efforts:

<http://www.wtatennis.com/players/player/5744> (click “read more” under the biography heading)

Her support of our nation’s largest abortion provider began many years ago according to a 1989 New York Times article which explains Navratilova was “appalled by the Supreme Court’s review of abortion rights,” motivating her to add Planned Parenthood to her list of charitable organizations: <http://www.nytimes.com/1989/11/13/sports/navratilova-s-interests-go-beyond-racquet-s-reach.html?pagewanted=all>

Navratilova’s official Twitter account contains many tweets attacking the prolife position:

<https://twitter.com/martina/status/636168409118433281>

<https://twitter.com/martina/status/701523995888369664>

<https://twitter.com/martina/status/715384200384352257>

<https://twitter.com/martina/status/726768949556350976>